

Certified Security Concern

In accordance with 76 FR 32258, which was published in the Federal Register on June 3, 2011 (the "Notice"), Aflac Incorporated submits that a Certified Security Concern exists under the Valid Security Concern requirements defined in the Notice regarding the security of Aflac Incorporated, its subsidiaries, as well as its aircraft, aircraft passengers, and employees. We understand that a Valid Security Concern is a verifiable threat to person, property or company, including a threat of death, kidnapping or serious bodily harm against an individual, a recent history of violent terrorist activity in the geographic area in which the transportation is provided, or a threat against a company.

In addition to due consideration given to the criteria listed above, The Aflac Incorporated Aviation Department operates under a Transportation Security Administration (TSA) approved aviation security program given the government's concern with the threat to large general aviation aircraft and associated critical infrastructure. Aflac Incorporated is located within 15 minutes flying time to the nation's busiest international airport and the greater metropolitan Atlanta, GA area. Our World Wide Headquarters located in Columbus, GA is adjacent to one of the nation's most recognized and active military bases involved in the Global War on Terror, Fort Benning. Given the highly recognized global brand of Aflac, its Fortune 125 status in the financial services sector, and our diverse operating environment, it is deemed prudent and in keeping with industry security best practices to continue blocking detailed flight information data from those without a legitimate "need to know".

The Aflac aircraft subject to this Certified Security Concern are as follows: N500AF, N520AF.

Aflac Incorporated respectfully requests the FAA to continue the uninterrupted services of blocking the aircraft identification numbers from release by the industry subscribers to the FAA's data feed.

On July 14, 2011, I do certify and affirm that the above statements are true and correct.

To whom it may concern:

In accordance with 76 FR 32258, Joe Gibbs Racing, Inc. (JGR) respectfully requests continuous and uninterrupted blocking of certain aircraft data in the Aircraft Situation Display to Industry (ASDI) data feeds by the industry subscribers to the FAA's data feed.

Our company is privately-held. Accordingly, there is no compelling public interest in the FAA facilitating public tracking of the movements of our aircraft or executives. The principal in our organization is a very well-known individual who has been aggressively tracked and met by fans and autograph-seekers prior to inclusion in BARR. Absent continued ASDI blocking we are concerned that existing safety and security margins for the private individuals who travel on JGR's aircraft will be significantly degraded.

RE: Certified Security Concern for Marathon Petroleum Company LP

Dear ATO System Operations Services:

Pursuant to the Notice published in the Federal Register on June 3, 2011 (76 Fed. Reg. 32,258), Marathon Petroleum Company LP (MPC) submits to the Federal Aviation Administration ("FAA") that a Certified Security Concern exists under the Valid Security Concern requirements for two Marathon Petroleum Company LP aircraft: (1) Hawker 800 XPI, tail number N518M; and (2) Hawker 800 XPI, tail number N519M (hereinafter "Marathon Aircraft Identification Data").

Defined by the FAA as a "...verifiable threat to person, property or company, including a threat of death, kidnapping or serious bodily harm against an individual, a recent history of violent terrorist activity in the geographic area in which the transportation is provided, or a threat against a company," the Valid Security Concern applies to MPC's aircraft (and associated aircraft passengers and employees) for several reasons, three of which are identified below:

Security of Critical Infrastructure and Legal Compliance: Marathon Petroleum is a critical infrastructure owner and operator and is subject to federal laws intended to enhance the security of its personnel and assets, particularly the Maritime Transportation Security Act and the Chemical Facility Anti-Terrorism Standards. Congress specifically passed these laws because of the importance of (and threats against) the chemical and petrochemical supply chain.

Travel to High-Risk Areas: Marathon Petroleum's business activities require personnel to travel to high-risk areas throughout the world, including South America, and the Middle East. MPC aircraft frequently travel to locations that are subject to U.S. Department of State Travel Warnings because of terrorist activity, including terrorist activity specifically directed at Western interests and companies.

Threats to Senior Leadership: There have been recent and verifiable incidents in which threats of violence have been made against Marathon Petroleum's senior leadership. Threats of harm, which have been communicated verbally and in writing, have occurred for a variety of reasons: (1) anger associated with the price of gasoline; (2) following employee and contractor terminations; (3) during and after instances of workplace violence. In some cases, Marathon Petroleum uses armed Protective Security Details ("PSDs") to enhance the personal safety of senior leadership following receipt of a specific and verifiable threat.

To counter these and other security concerns, MPC maintains a professional and full time Corporate Security organization. Among other things, MPC Corporate Security is responsible for the development and deployment of a complete Workplace Violence Program, conducting travel threat assessments, protecting MPC aircraft, providing executive protection (including advance travel teams and armed PSDs, as appropriate), and ensuring regulatory compliance with federal laws affecting the chemical and petrochemical critical infrastructure.

For these reasons, Marathon Petroleum respectfully requests that the FAA continue to block Marathon Petroleum Aircraft Identification Data from release by the Direct Subscribers to the FAA's data feed. Should the FAA have any questions or require additional information, please do not hesitate to contact me. Thank you in advance.

Respectfully submitted,

History: This message has been replied to.

I, Grant D. Ashley, Vice President of Security & Crisis Management of Merck Sharp & Dohme Corp., the operator of N431MK, N501MK, N518MK, N653MK, N663MK & N991MK Aircraft (the "Company"), hereby certify that the Aircraft identified by the registration numbers above satisfy the requirements for a bona fide business-oriented security concern under 26 C.F.R. section 1.132-5(m).

The Company's Global Security Group monitors and evaluates circumstances and threats which may pose a safety or security risk to the Company and its personnel, including its Executive Leadership. It is as a result of an assessment by the Company's Global Security Group, which included the gathering and analysis of credible security risks and vulnerabilities, that we certify that a bona fide business-oriented security concern under 26 C.F.R. section 1.132-5(m) exists to the Aircraft and the passengers flying on the Aircraft. The specific threats and concerns leading us to this conclusion include but are not limited to:

- Merck, its Executive Leadership and other personnel who may be passengers on the Aircraft have been declared targets of a number of animal rights extremists who have engaged in violent and illegal behavior directed at the senior leadership and other key personnel in the pharmaceutical industry worldwide.
- Merck's Executive Leadership has been vilified in the press and has received numerous threats arising out of the consolidation of its business operations, including the closing of certain operations and facilities globally and workforce reductions. Such closures and reductions are generally announced in-person by Merck Senior Leadership. In order to continue to manage its remaining operations in many locations, Merck Senior Executives must continue to travel to company locations co-located with or nearby locations which are the subject of closures or reductions. In all instances, foreknowledge of the travel plans which allow for time and place predictability of Merck's Aircraft increase the risk of such threats or other violence being carried out.
- Merck's Aircraft and passengers, including our Executive Leadership, routinely travel to high risk (criminal, political or terrorism) cities to include: Mexico City, Mexico; Sao Paulo, Brazil; Bogota, Colombia; Mumbai, India; Johannesburg, South Africa; and Caracas, Venezuela. Leaders of US corporations continue to be targets in these cities.
- Merck Executive Leadership has been the target, in the US, by disease specific extreme activists. Executives have received threats, been the focus of public advertising campaigns via the renting of billboards and placement of signs/banners in public locations, and have been the subject of mass mailings of fliers containing their photographs, names and identities prominently listed with disparaging and negative comments and caricatures on them. These activists have engaged in unpredictable and spontaneous incidents which pose a threat and danger to Merck Executive Leadership.
- Highly antagonistic, inflammatory and personalized rhetoric posted on industry specific chat rooms and blog discussions relevant to Merck Executive Leadership.
- Receive anonymous threats and intimidations letters and telephone calls directed at Merck Executive Leadership.

Specifically, Merck Sharp & Dohme Corp. has currently implemented for its Executive Leadership an "overall security program" within the meaning of 26 C.F.R. section 1.132-5(m)(2)(iii) based on a risk and vulnerability assessment performed by an independent security consultant in light of its objective assessment of all facts and circumstances. Merck's current overall security program provides, among other things, security trained drivers for members of Executive Leadership as well as security measures at their offices and residences. Merck's Executive Leadership have the authority to travel on each of the Aircraft identified above for business reasons.

Accordingly, for the aforementioned reasons, the Company requests that the on-demand identification numbers for all of the Aircraft be excluded from public ASDI and NASSI data-feeds for the twelve (12) month period commencing on the date approval is granted by the FAA.

Respectfully,

Grant D. Ashley

RE: Certified Security Concern for N974BK

As prescribed in our Oxbow Falcon Safety Management System (SMS) we have completed a security self-evaluation and have determined that there is bona fide business oriented security concern, making it necessary to continue in the BARR system.

We wish to request to block our aircraft identification prior to the FAA release of the data feed.

The certified security concern is the result of the business nature of the company owning the aircraft. The parent company has major holdings in coal, natural gas, oil, sulphur and other carbon-based energy businesses. This places the company and its assets, including its aircraft and principal at risk for aggressive actions by individuals and special interest groups deeply opposed to the continued use of carbon-based fuels. In view of this volatile and highly unpredictable environment, it is apparent that our security measures must be both proactive and all-inclusive. We currently have monitored security systems and safety management plans in place for all of the principal's home locations and business locations as well as at the flight department office and hangar where the aircraft is housed. Keeping the aircraft registration blocked is a necessary component to our safety management and security system.

We wish to have the block in effect for an undetermined period of time as the certified security concern is of indefinite duration, given the persistence of a highly-inflamed, politicized and often ugly debate over the use of carbon-based fuels and their impact on air quality and the climate.

PENN NATIONAL GAMING, INC.

Certified Security Concern

In accordance with 76 FR 32258, which was published in the Federal Register on June 3, 2011 (the "Notice"), Penn National Gaming, Inc. submits that a Certified Security Concern exists under the Valid Security Concern requirements defined in the Notice regarding the security of Penn, its subsidiaries, as well as its aircraft, aircraft passengers, and employees. We understand that a Valid Security Concern is a verifiable threat to person, property or company, including a threat of death kidnapping or serious bodily harm against an individual, a recent history of violent terrorist activity in the geographic area in which the transportation is provided, or a threat against a company.

Penn National Gaming, Inc. and its various subsidiaries ("Penn") is the nation's largest publicly traded regional gaming operator. Penn owns, operates or has ownership interests in gaming and racing facilities with a focus on slot machine entertainment in eighteen jurisdictions, including Colorado, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas, West Virginia, and Ontario. In aggregate, Penn's facilities feature approximately 29,000 gaming machines, approximately 600 table games, 2,400 hotel rooms, 1.1 million square feet of gaming floor space, and 11 racetracks.

Despite the many positive contributions our facilities make to their communities in terms of significant economic development, job creation, and local and regional charitable support, the gaming industry remains a deeply polarizing, emotionally charged issue in this country. We estimate as many as 30% of adult Americans may be religiously, morally or philosophically opposed to gaming, and that number often increases by those opposing the expansion of gaming "in their back yard." Our employees who travel the country seeking new development opportunities are often met by fervent, and at times even radical, local opposition. With more regional assets across North America than any other publicly traded gaming company, we are deeply concerned by the threat anti-gaming or radical fundamentalists might present to our employees.

At the property level, Penn's gaming facilities have extensive security, including sophisticated security systems, and numerous security personnel. The security of each facility is tightly regulated under state statutes, rules and regulations. Security plans must be reviewed and adopted by state regulators before they can be implemented. Our security personnel routinely handle security threats to our casinos. Such threats have been made by patrons, excluded patrons, disgruntled former employees, and racetrack personnel. Our facilities on a regular basis permanently exclude individuals who are no longer welcome and who may be security threats. In addition, security personnel often identify formerly excluded individuals in our facilities whom, upon identification, must be removed. Our security personnel remain vigilant, protecting company personnel and property.

One of Penn's casinos located in Lawrenceburg, Indiana was recently threatened with an unspecified act of violence by an unknown individual. We were informed of this threat by local law enforcement.

Penn employees often travel to Las Vegas, Nevada, the location of Penn's M Resort. While no violent terrorist activity has taken place in Las Vegas, federal law enforcement personnel and other government officials and commentators have reported that Las Vegas is one of the cities high on the list of US Cities for potential terrorist attacks. See Las Vegas Sun, Oct. 7, 2010 article "Terrorism Expert Says Las Vegas is a Top Target" (reporting Las Vegas to be no. 3 in the list of top targets for terrorism). <http://www.lasvegassun.com/news/2010/oct/07/terrorism-expert-says-las-vegas-top-target/>

In addition, from time to time, we have customers who have played at our venues yet suffer from pathological or compulsive gambling problems. While we try to identify such people and steer them to resources and programs that offer help for such problems, we are not always successful. Persons with a pathological or compulsive gambling problem often have co-morbid mental health conditions including drug and alcohol addiction, depression, delusions and other impulse control disorders. Such a person, who also may have experienced significant gambling losses, may blame the casino and casino personnel for their losses instead of their own underlying psychological disorder(s). Our concern is that such losses may cause them to attempt high-profile retribution against casino property or personnel.

In addition to the above-referenced valid security concerns, Penn is very concerned about revealing the location of our aircraft to our business competitors and the public. Penn is a public company traded on NASDAQ. Penn has grown significantly through acquisitions of casinos and racing properties. There are a finite number of gaming facilities across the United States that would be attractive acquisition targets for Penn. Simply by tracking our aircraft locations, competitors could easily guess what properties Penn is investigating and use that otherwise confidential information, to their competitive advantage. In addition, prospective and current shareholders may learn non-public information about Penn's future business interests well before any acquisitions are announced or finalized. Such knowledge would unfairly benefit only certain shareholders who could deduce Penn's next business acquisition may be.

International Disaster Relief Charity

Aircraft: 1. Model: Dassault Falcon 900EX, serial number 37, N900FJ
(Operator of Aircraft)

2. Model: Beechcraft King Air 300, serial number FA33, N262SP
(Owner/Operator of Aircraft)

Certifying Official: Ron E. Wilcox, Chief Operating Officer, Samaritan's Purse

Request for Approval of Certified Security Concern:

Background

Samaritan's Purse is an international Christian disaster relief agency that works in over 100 countries around the world. Samaritan's Purse provides assistance in countries with harsh or difficult conditions and with complex political environments, such as Southern Sudan, Somalia, Haiti, Jordan, Iraq, Afghanistan and North Korea. Samaritan's Purse has international affiliate offices in the Australia, Canada, Germany, Hong Kong, and the United Kingdom. Combined contributions for the United States and international offices are over $500 million.

The President, Chief Executive Officer and Chairman of the Board for Samaritan's Purse is Franklin Graham. Mr. Graham is also the Chief Executive Officer of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association. Mr. Graham is an author and a frequent guest on major news networks such as CNN, Fox News, ABC and many others. He is a well-known, public figure that attracts media attention because of the worldwide work of Samaritan's Purse and the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association and due to the fact he is often interviewed to discuss cutting-edge, world events or controversial subject matter. For example, in October 2010, Franklin Graham was invited by Christiane Amanpour to participate on a panel on the ABC network to discuss the place of Islam in United States. See Attachment A, "Heated Debate Over Place of Islam in the United States." Mr. Graham has met with heads of state and government officials in many countries worldwide and is recognized nationally and internationally. He is the son of Dr. Billy Graham, an internationally known evangelist.

Franklin Graham is a licensed pilot for both the aircraft listed above. He utilizes air transportation continuously and extensively in the United States and around the world for speaking engagements, disaster relief activity, project oversight, international office meetings, and to meet with partners in mission, dignitaries, and government officials. Mr. Graham has flown to over 40 international cities in the last three years. Destinations have included Pyongyang, North Korea; Monrovia, Liberia; Amman, Jordan; Chennai, India; Nairobi, Kenya; Khartoum, Sudan; Belfast, Ireland; Bogota, Columbia; Kauda, Sudan; Petropavlovsk, Russia; Port-au-Prince, Haiti, and many other international destinations. In addition, Mr. Graham, regularly utilizes aircraft listed above for transportation for ministry activities, business meetings, and media events within the United States. The BARR (Block Aircraft Registration Request) protection is necessary and critical to the security of Mr. Graham, ministry personnel traveling with him, and ministry property, due to the Valid Security Concern that exists.

Valid Security Concern

In compliance with the Federal Aviation Administration June 3, 2011 Notice (Docket No. FAA-2011-0183), Samaritan's Purse is certifying that a Valid Security Concern clearly exists. A Valid Security Concern is a verifiable threat to person, property, or company, including a threat of death, kidnapping or serious bodily harm against an individual.

A basic Google search using the terms "Franklin Graham" and "Islam" will reveal articles and publications worldwide over the last decade concerning the sensitive and controversial subject of the impact of Islam. An internet search will also reveal the verifiable threat from Iranian cleric Ayatollah Mohsen Mujtahed Shabestari. See Attachment B. Reports state that a message given by Shabestari at a Friday mosque service in Tabriz called for the death of Franklin Graham. Mr. Graham has regularly spoken to the media over the last decade concerning the topic of Islam and has received substantial media attention for his position and statements on Islam. See Attachment C. Through the internet, television and other forms of media, these positions and statements are disseminated worldwide. Articles in Arabic have stated that Franklin Graham has insulted Islam's Prophet and that a Islamic religious decree applies to those who insult the prophet. Due to the controversy and sensitivity of the subject of Islam and the constant national and international media attention, Mr. Graham is subject to verifiable threats. For this reason, it is critical that the BARR service remain in place for the aircraft list above.

For security, safety and privacy reasons, the Board of Directors for Samaritan's Purse has required Franklin Graham to use the above aircraft for business and personal flights. Personal flights, pursuant to IRS regulation, are recorded in taxable income of Mr. Graham. The Board of Directors' action is in recognition of the valid security risks and verifiable threats.

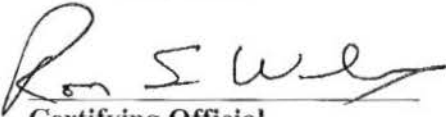

Another recent example of a verifiable threat occurred in March 2011. An agent from the Federal Bureau of Investigation contacted our offices to share information about a family that had moved from the United States to Yemen and back to the United States. While in Yemen, the teenage son attended a conventional Islamic school and then the family returned to the United States. When the son returned to the United States the FBI reported to our Samaritan's Purse Security Department that in U.S. Customs it was discovered that the young man carried a "hit list" and Franklin Graham's name was on the list. In addition, our ministry has received other calls regarding persons angry about comments Mr. Graham made when discussing the topic of Islam and its impact in the United States and countries around the world.

Security risks and threats also exist simply due to the family name and worldwide recognition of the "Graham" name. Dr. Billy Graham is the most recognized name in Christian evangelism in the last century. Franklin Graham is also widely recognized and a public figure as he oversees the domestic and international work of Samaritan's Purse, a charity with combined contributions of $500 million, and is the CEO for another large charity, the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association. Due to this public figure status and constant exposure in the media, our offices constantly are in communication with the generous donors that support the ministry work. However, we also receive attention and communication from unstable persons with criminal backgrounds that appear angry or make threatening statements toward Mr. Graham or a member of his family, including the threat of death. Our Security Department often has to follow up and obtain background checks on persons who have suspect or threatening behavior and who have contacted Samaritan's Purse or the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association. Further, Mr. Graham is potentially vulnerable to kidnapping, either for ransom or as a political statement, in many of the destinations to which he travels. These security threats and risks come with the territory with nationally and internationally recognized public figures. Franklin Graham has met with United States presidents, political leaders of countries around the world, and attracted extensive media exposure worldwide. For speaking engagements and Christian outreach events taking place in coliseums and stadiums, professional security teams, including former Secret Service agents, are engaged for the protection of Franklin Graham.

In summary, verifiable and specific security threats exist. The security concerns are valid, have substance and are not abstract, generalized, and non-specific. Threats have been exposed in the media, by the FBI and through persons contacting ministry offices directly. In addition to the controversial nature of the topic of Islam and the response of the more radical elements of its adherents, Franklin Graham is a public figure exposed to unstable persons or criminal elements from the public at large. For Mr. Graham's movements to be broadcast to the public via the ASDI-NASSI data feeds would directly and measurably increase the risks to his personal safety.

If there is a case for a Valid Security Concern to continue the BARR security protections, this is it. The facts and circumstances establish a Valid Security Concern regarding the security of the Samaritan's Purse aircraft listed above. Samaritan's Purse respectfully requests continued protection under the BARR system and that the FAA approve certification that a Certified Security Concern exists for the above named aircraft owned by Samaritan's Purse.

I, Ron E. Wilcox, Chief Operating Officer of Samaritan's Purse, hereby certify that a Valid Security Concern exists with respect to the aircraft named herein and respectfully request the Federal Aviation Administration permit the use of the BARR system for such aircraft based on the Valid Security Concern and approve the Certified Security Concern request submitted by Samaritan's Purse.

On a special "This Week" town hall, Christiane Amanpour moderated a fiery debate over the place of Islam in America. The first question the "This Week" anchor put to her panelists on all sides of the issue was: should Americans fear Islam?

Peter Gadiel, who lost his son in the 9/11 terrorist attacks, said that he would like nothing more than to not be afraid of Islam, but to ignore the "history of Muslim terror attacks," he said, would be unwise. Gadiel, who is a board member of the 9/11 Families for a Secure America Foundation, said "to ignore that threat is to ignore the history of Islam."

Donna Marsh O'Connor, who lost her daughter in the 9/11 attacks, said that Americans should not live in fear of a whole group of people. "I think Americans should fear criminal behavior. I think we should do the best we can to control criminal behavior. But I can't raise my two remaining sons to fear the people who live next door to them. That is not what my grandparents came to America to escape," she said.

"We are a group of 9/11 family members. I know a lot of family members are here. We share the pain and, you know, I think the unfortunate piece of this is that we don't agree on this," O'Connor added.

Amanpour then turned to the Reverend Franklin Graham, who has called Islam "wicked" and "evil." Graham said he understood what Muslims in America were trying to do. "They want to build as many mosques and cultural centers as they possibly can so they can convert as many Americans as they can to Islam. I understand that," Graham said.

"That's your position?" Amanpour asked Graham.

"Sure," the Reverend said. "And I understand what they're doing. ... But let me just say something about Islam. I love the Muslim people. But I have great difficulty with the religion, especially with Sharia law and what it does for women -- toward women, toward non-believers, the violence that is given in -- under Sharia law," Graham told the town hall audience.

Amanpour turned to Reza Aslan, a scholar and a contributing editor and The Daily Beast. "Reza, you have heard just right now several points raised. One is that Muslims in this country are trying to bring Sharia law. Is there a shred of evidence for that?" Amanpour asked.

"No, not a single shred whatsoever," Aslan said.

Amanpour asked Graham why he called Islam an "evil" religion.

"I think to take your daughter, because you think that -- and the religion gives you the authority -- Sharia gives you the authority for honor killing. And we saw the young girl in Ohio just a few --" Graham began to say, but was interrupted by Imam Ossama Bahloul, the leader of the Islamic Center of Murfreesboro, Tenn.

"It does not," Bahloul said. "Listen, we have some people, Christians, Muslims, Jewish and other, who misuse the holy books. It's understandable. I do not deny this," he said. "But it's something the extreme majority of the Muslims, they have a proper understanding about this religion."

Debate Over Islamic Center Near Ground Zero

Amanpour asked Daisy Khan, one of the main backers of the proposed Islamic Center near Ground Zero, where all the moderate Muslim voices were,

"Well, the moderates are speaking out. I happen to be one of them," Khan, the executive director of the American Society for Muslim Advancement, said. "I was devastated by the events of 9/11 and I had to quit my corporate career -- a lucrative corporate career ... to ensure that we would create a counter-momentum against extremism so that another 9/11 does not ever happen again," she said.

"This particular center will create a counter-momentum against extremism, because it will amplify the voices of moderate Muslims, which have gotten drowned out over the years by the extremists, because the extremists did not only hijack the planes, they hijacked an entire religion," Khan added.

Later in the town hall, Peter Gaidel spoke again. "I do not say that Islam is evil. I say there is a lot of evil connected with it," he said. "That is a problem for Muslims themselves. They have to cure the problem. We're supposed to believe Ms. Khan here, that she can cure the problems of Islam at the fringes. The problem goes to the core..." he said.

"This Week with Christiane Amanpour" will be hosting a special town hall debate: "Holy War: Should Americans Fear Islam?" The debate will air, Oct. 3, 2010.

The conversation turned to the controversy over the Islamic center and Mosque at Ground Zero. Gary Bauer, former Republican presidential hopeful and current president of the group American Values, said "I'm saying that it is incredibly insensitive for her or anyone else to suggest building a mosque near a place where 3,000 people died, killed by men operating in the name of Islam."

Amanpour asked him why he felt that way.

"Because that is ground that was the first chapter in a war with radical Islam. At this very moment, Christiane, the reality that we all face is that there are evil men that worship death that want to bring us a day much worse than the morning of 9/11," Bauer said.

Later, Donna Marsh O'Connor spoke on the issue. "You know, I don't know why on earth you would think that there is an address in America where, you know, Muslim people can't practice their religion," she said. The 9/11 attacks "broke the hearts of everybody in this nation from the East Coast to the West Coast. And let me tell you, once you started spewing the hate, you know, people were Anybody who takes 'any' RELIGION seriously is mentally ill ... Islam is currently the only religion that is actually 'practised' in the world... so we have to be afraid of the crazy mullahs.... they are obviously dangerously unstable. Islam has very recently become powerful because of the unearned oil wealth of Arab countries. These people suddenly developed a 'faith' in their God because of this huge windfall!

I was on the fence until I watched this discussion now I am very much IN FAVOR of the mosque being build near ground zero because it is right and proper. They are not breaking any laws or violations so why not. Are we becoming a nation that is ruled by public opinion? 300 years ago most Americans were in favor of slavery; 50 years ago most Americans believed it was o.k. to discriminate against other people. If Jews, Christians or Buddist had flown planes into the Twin Towers would we be having this debate. I doubt it. It is time for our nation to practice what it preaches. Anewhouse Amanpour interrupted, most of the time, anyone on Dr. Graham's side of the panel, with either her own comments or with someone on the Islam-sided remote guests. Very little attention was placed on the lady who denied Islam and is now under threat. The one remote gentleman from Amsterdam spoke in a derogatory way to Dr. Graham and his side of the panel. I am sorry but I will not trust Amanpour, she is supposed to be an un-biased journalist. I have heard from many Islamic leaders that there is only one Islam, and that picking which "wattered-down" version of Islam you find most comfortable with is not correct.

Iranian Cleric Demands Death For Christian Leaders Who Dare To Criticize Islam

Oct. 16, 2002 - Iranian cleric Ayatollah Mohsen Mujtahed Shabestari called for the death of Jerry Falwell, Franklin Graham, and Pat Robertson because they recently criticized Islam. However, none of them has advocated violence against Muslims.

Whilst no official fatwa calling for the deaths of the three Christian leaders has been issued by Iran's Islamic clergy, the comments that have been made are already being compared with the 1989 fatwa that was issued against the British author Salman Rushdie.

Franklin Graham conducts services at Pentagon

No mention of Muslims

Friday, April 18, 2003 Posted: 1923 GMT (3:23 AM HKT)

WASHINGTON (CNN) -- Christian minister Franklin Graham delivered a Good Friday message at the Pentagon over objections from some Muslim employees who complained about his earlier description of Islam as "a very evil and wicked religion."

Graham, son of evangelist Billy Graham, thanked God for "the principles on which this nation was built and what it stands for" and "for our president and all those who are in authority over us." He made no mention of Muslims.

Christians remember the story of the crucifixion of Jesus Christ on Good Friday, prior to the resurrection on Easter Sunday. Graham noted that the icon of his faith was "falsely accused by the religious establishment" who "just made up things" to make a case for his death.

The Pentagon's chaplain office invited Graham to conduct the services and refused to rescind the invitation after hearing the concerns of three Muslim employees, a Pentagon source told CNN.

"It's important to remember that the Pentagon's chaplain's office invites speakers and religious leaders from all sorts of different places representing all sorts of different faiths and organizations," the source said. "It's a policy of openness and inclusiveness."

After the September 11, 2001 terror attacks, Graham was quoted on NBC Nightly News as having denounced Islam as "a very evil and wicked religion" -- although a month before those comments he told CNN that Americans should not "paint (Muslims) in a broad brush" because a "small group of people" were responsible for the terror attacks.

Graham has acknowledged that his statements about Islam have caused controversy. On his Samaritan's Purse Web site he said, "While I respect the rights of all people to adopt their own beliefs, I would respectfully disagree with any religion that teaches people to put their faith in other gods."

He said he is not against Islam, pointing out that his relief group has supplied goods to Islamic countries. "But as a minister, not a politician, I believe it is my responsibility to speak out against the terrible deeds that are committed as a result of Islamic teaching," he said.

Responding to Muslim complaints, Graham said on his Web site, "I decry the evil that has been done in the name of Islam, or any other faith, including Christianity."

Graham, speaking with CNN's Judy Woodruff on September 14, 2001 -- three days after the terror attacks -- said Americans should not turn against Muslims simply because they are Muslim.

"We shouldn't do that," he said. "I have many Arab friends, many Muslim friends, they're wonderful people who, of course, are just as brokenhearted and disgusted over the incidents of this past week as we are. And we should not just turn our hatred toward people of another race or of another religion."

Focus on those responsible

"We need to focus on those who are actually responsible for this," he added. "And it wasn't a race of people who did this, it was a small group of people who are bent on the destruction of this country, those Islamic fundamentalist that need to be stopped. So I plead with people not to paint in a broad brush, so to speak, the people of the Middle East. They're wonderful people."

But a month later, Graham had apparently changed his views.

"We're not attacking Islam but Islam has attacked us," NBC News quoted Graham saying at the dedication of a North Carolina chapel in October. "The God of Islam is not the same God. He's not the son of God of the Christian or Judeo-Christian faith. It's a different God, and I believe it is a very evil and wicked religion."

When NBC asked him to clarify his statements, he said, "It wasn't Methodists flying into those buildings, it wasn't Lutherans. It was an attack on this country by people of the Islamic faith."

Muslims also have accused Graham and other Christian groups of hoping to convert Muslims in Iraq under the guise of doing humanitarian work there.

Graham told the Los Angeles Times last week that Samaritan's Purse will work in Iraq, offering "physical assistance to those who need it, with no strings attached." He said the group will do no proselytizing.

Franklin Graham Regrets Army's Decision to Rescind Invite to Pentagon Prayer Service

Published April 22, 2010 | FOXNews.com

In this Sunday, May 24, 2009 file photo, Franklin Graham prepares to give the invocation before the NASCAR Coca-Cola 600 auto race at Lowe's Motor Speedway in Concord, N.C. (AP)

Evangelist Franklin Graham said Thursday that he regrets the Army's decision to rescind its invitation to him for the Pentagon's National Day of Prayer service on May 6, but expressed "strong support" for the U.S. military.

An Army spokesman confirmed to Fox News that the invitation to Graham to be honorary chairman at the event was rescinded amid complaints from Muslim members of the military about his description of Islam as an evil religion.

The Army spokesman said the event will go forward but without the National Day of Prayer Task Force participating.

"I regret that the Army felt it was necessary to rescind their invitation to the National Day of Prayer Task Force to participate in the Pentagon's special prayer service," Graham said in a written statement.

"I want to express my strong support for the United States military and all our troops," he added. "I will continue to pray that God will give them guidance, wisdom and protection as they serve this great country."

Earlier Thursday, Graham stuck by his remarks about Islam, including that Muslims are "enslaved" by their religion.

Franklin, the son of famed evangelist Billy Graham, told Fox News that he loves Muslim people and wants them to know that God loves them, even if they can be saved only through Jesus Christ.

"I want them to know that they don't have to die in a car bomb, don't have to die in some kind of holy war to be accepted by God. But it's through faith in Jesus Christ and Christ alone," Graham said.

Graham said he loves the Muslim people, just not their religion -- which he called "horrid" for its restrictions on women.

"I love the people of Islam but their religion, I do not agree with their religion at all. And if you look at what the religion does just to women, women alone, it is just horrid. And so yes, I speak out for women. I speak out for people that live under Islam, that are enslaved by Islam and I want them to know that they can be free," he said.

After the 2001 terrorist attacks on the United States, Graham said Islam "is a very evil and wicked religion." In a later op-ed piece in The Wall Street Journal, Graham wrote that he did not believe Muslims were evil because of their faith, but "as a minister ... I believe it is my responsibility to speak out against the terrible deeds that are committed as a result of Islamic teaching."

Army spokesman Gary Tallman told Fox News on Wednesday that Graham's "presence at the event may be taken by some as inappropriate for a government agency."

"As the executive agent of the Pentagon chaplain's office, Army leadership determined it needed further review," he said.

The Military Religious Freedom Foundation raised the objection to the appearance, citing Graham's past remarks about Islam, in a letter sent Monday to Defense Secretary Robert Gates.

Mikey Weinstein, president of the foundation, said the invitation offended Muslim employees at the Pentagon because Graham never retracted or apologized for his description of Islam as evil. Weinstein said the invitation would endanger American troops by stirring up Muslim extremists.

Army Col. Tom Collins said the invitation wasn't from the Pentagon but from the Colorado-based National Day of Prayer Task Force, which works with the Pentagon chaplain's office on the prayer event.

The task force organizes Christian events for the National Day of Prayer. Collins said neither Army Secretary John McHugh nor Chief of Staff Gen. George W. Casey Jr. was aware of the invitation.

After Graham's appearance, the Council of American-Islamic Relations issued a call for supporters to petition the Pentagon to drop Graham.

"To have an individual who calls Islam evil and claims Muslims are enslaved by their faith speak at the Pentagon sends entirely the wrong message at a time when hundreds of thousands of our nation's military personnel are currently stationed in Muslim countries," said CAIR National Executive Director Nihad Awad. "Franklin Graham's appearance has the potential to harm unit cohesion and morale through the promotion of distorted, intolerant and divisive views within military ranks."

Task force chairwoman Shirley Dobson said in a written statement that U.S. leaders have called for a day of prayer during times of crisis since 1775, but the tradition is under attack.

"Enough is enough," said Dobson, wife of conservative Christian leader James Dobson. "We at the National Day of Prayer Task Force ask the American people to defend the right to pray in the Pentagon."

She called on President Obama to appeal a ruling by a federal judge in Wisconsin last week that the National Day of Prayer is unconstitutional because it amounts to a call for religious action. The judge did not bar any observances until all appeals are exhausted.

CAIR celebrates Pentagon's disinvite of Franklin Graham

Unindicted terrorist co-conspirator pressed Army to bar evangelist from prayer event

A Muslim-rights group designated by the Justice Department as a terrorist co-conspirator celebrated its role in the cancellation of evangelist Franklin Graham's appearance at a National Day of Prayer event at the Pentagon.

Graham, the son of evangelist Billy Graham, said his invitation to be honorary chairman at the May 6 Pentagon service was revoked after Muslim members of the military complained about his description of Islam after the 2001 terrorist attacks as "a very evil and wicked religion."

Graham explained his 2001 remarks in a Wall Street Journal op-ed piece, saying he didn't believe Muslims were evil because of their faith but, as a minister, he thought it was his "responsibility to speak out against the terrible deeds that are committed as a result of Islamic teaching."

Army Col. Tom Collins said the invitation to Graham was from the Colorado-based National Day of Prayer Task Force, not the Pentagon. The Pentagon chaplain's office, he said, coordinates the event with the private group. The Army said the event will go forward without the participation of the National Day of Prayer Task Force.

Council on American-Islamic Relations National Executive Director Nihad Awad said his organization – an unindicted co-conspirator in the largest terror-finance case in U.S. history – hailed the decision "as a victory for common sense and good judgment."

"Promoting one's own religious beliefs is something to be defended and encouraged, but other faiths should not be attacked or misrepresented in the process," Awad said.

CAIR had called on its supporters to petition the Pentagon to rescind the invitation to Graham.

CAIR – newly confirmed by the Justice Department as a terrorist co-conspirator – is trying to keep its lawsuit alive against two investigators behind the expose "Muslim Mafia", which documents the D.C.-based group's founding and current activity as a front group for the Muslim Brotherhood and its spinoff Hamas, the Palestinian terrorist organization.

Army spokesman Gary Tallman told Fox News Graham's "presence at the event may be taken by some as inappropriate for a government agency."

But critics of CAIR accused the Army of succumbing to political correctness and ignoring the Muslim organization's radical affiliations.

"No matter what the circumstances, the Army has no business bowing to the will of a group that has been named an unindicted co-conspirator in a Hamas funding case, and has had several of its officials convicted of jihad terror-related charges," Robert Spencer commented on his Jihad Watch blog.

Graham said in a statement he regretted the Army's decision but expressed "strong support" for the U.S. military. He refused to revise his past comments.

Graham is president and CEO of the evangelical relief group Samaritan's Purse and the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association.

He told Fox News yesterday he loves Muslim people and wants them to know God loves them and they can be saved through Jesus Christ.

"I want them to know that they don't have to die in a car bomb, don't have to die in some kind of holy war to be accepted by God. But it's through faith in Jesus Christ and Christ alone," Graham said.

Graham called Islam's restrictions on women "horrid."

"I love the people of Islam but their religion, I do not agree with their religion at all," he told Fox News. "And if you look at what the religion does just to women, women alone, it is just horrid. And so yes, I speak out for women. I speak out for people that live under Islam, that are enslaved by Islam and I want them to know that they can be free."

Commenting on Graham's remarks to Fox News, Spencer accused the Army of "abetting the whitewashing and coverup of the institutionalized mistreatment of women in Islamic law."

"This could have been, as Obama might say, a 'teaching moment,' and an opportunity to stand up for the human rights of those women and other groups oppressed by Shariah. Instead, it is just an occasion for more dhimmitude," he said, referring to the subordination of non-Muslims under Islamic law.

1. جيري فالويل Jerry Falwell وهو قسيس إنجيلي معروف، ويقيم في مدينة لينشبرج Lynchburg في منطقة فيرجينيا بالولايات المتحدة الأمريكية وله برنامج أسبوعي إذاعي وتلفزيوني يصل إلى أكثر من 10 مليون منزل أسبوعياً. وله جامعة خاصة أصولية تسمى جامعة الحرية Liberty University. ويهاجم النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم من خلال وسائل الإعلام الأمريكية الكبرى إضافة إلى موقعه الخاص على الإنترنت www.falwell.com والذي يضع فيه في الصفحة الأولى تاريخاً زائفاً عن النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم. كما أنه يروج من خلال موقعه كتاب "لنلتقدم إلى معركة هرمجوتون" March to Armageddon وهي معركة نهاية التاريخ كما في معتقدات الإنجيليين.

2. بات روبرتسون Pat Robertson وهو قسيس إنجيلي معروف باهتماماته السياسية وتأييده المطلق لإسرائيل ويمتلك عدداً من المؤسسات الإعلامية من بينها نادي الـ 700 (Club 700) وهو برنامج تلفزيوني يصل إلى عشرات الملايين في الولايات المتحدة الأمريكية إضافة إلى محطة فضائية تصل إلى 90 دولة في العالم بأكثر من 50 لغة مختلفة وهي محطة "البث النصراني" (Christian Broadcasting) ومنها إذاعة الشرق الأوسط المتخصصة في التنصير في منطقة العالم العربي. كما سعى بات روبرتسون إلى الترشح لمنصب الرئيس الأمريكي في عام 1988، ويقف خلف إنشاء أقوى تحالف سياسي ديني في الحزب الجمهوري وهو "التحالف النصراني" (Christian Coalition). وموقعه الإلكتروني هو www.patrobertson.com ويمتلك أيضاً جامعة أصولية وهي جامعة ريجنت Regent University

4. جيري فاينز Jerry Vines وهو راعي كنيسة في جاكسون فيل فلوريدا، يصل عدد أتباعها إلى 25 ألف شخص، وهو من أبرز المتحدثين الأمريكيين في المؤتمر السنوي للكنائس المعمدانية الجنوبية، وهو أكبر مؤتمر ديني يعقد في كل عام. وقام الرئيس الحالي والرئيس السابق بمدح هذا القسيس واعتباره من المتحدثين بصديق عن دينهم. وموقعه على الشبكة www.fbcjax.com

1. جيري فالويل Jerry Falwell في حديث له بث مساء الأحد (6 أكتوبر 2002) على برنامج "60 دقيقة" (60 minutes) اتهم النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم أنه إرهابي. وقال ما نصه: "أنا أعتقد أن محمداً كان إرهابياً. لقد قرأت ما يكفي .. من المسلمين وغير المسلمين أنه كان رجل عنف، ورجل حروب."

3. فرانكلين جراهام Franklin Graham أما فرانكلين جراهام فبأنه هو الذي أدلى بالإدعية الافتتاحية في حفل تتصيب الرئيس الأمريكي الحالي. وقد أدلى بتصريحات إعلامية ذكر فيها أن الإرهاب جزء من "النزاع العام" للإسلام، وأن القرآن "يحث على العنف".

وكرر فرانكلين جراهام - خلال برنامج "هافيتي أند كولمز" المذاع على قناة فوكس نيوز الأمريكية في الخامس من أغسطس - رفضه لإدانة تصريحات أدلى بها بعد أحداث سبتمبر 2001 وصف فيها الإسلام بأنه دين "شريد"، وفي كتاب جديد لفرانكلين جراهام يسمى "الاسم" The Name، يحتوي على نصوص مسيئة بوضوح للديانة الإسلامية، ومنها ما يلي:

في الصفحة رقم 71 يذكر الكتاب "الإسلام ... أسس بواسطة مجرد فرد بشري، مقاتل يسمى محمد، وفي تعاليمه ترى تكتيك "نشر الإسلام من خلال التوسع العسكري"، ومن خلال العنف إذا كان ضرورياً، من الواضح أن هدف الإسلام النهائي هو السيطرة على العالم".

4. جيري فاينز Jerry Vines وأصدر هذا الرجل تصريحات مثيرة بالكرهية والعداء للإسلام خلال الاجتماع السنوي للكنيسة المعمدانية الجنوبية، والذي عقد مؤخراً في مدينة سانت لويس بولاية ميزوري الأمريكية. وخلال الاجتماع إقترى جيري فاينز - الرئيس السابق للمؤتمر السنوي للكنيسة المعمدانية الجنوبية - على الرسول محمد صلى الله عليه وسلم واتهمه بأنه "مُذابح يميل لأطفال ويمتلكه الشيطان، وتزوج من 12 زوجة أخرى طفلة عمرها تسعة سنوات"، وأضاف فاينز أن "الله (الذي يؤمن به المسلمون) ليس الرب (الذي يؤمن به المسيحيون)".

وقد رفض قادة الكنيسة المعمدانية الجنوبية إدانة تصريحات فاينز، وأعلنوا تأييدهم لفاينز وتصريحاته. وقد قام الرئيس الأمريكي بمخاطبة الحاضرين بالمؤتمر من خلال الأعلام الصناعية. ولم يصدر منه شخصياً أي تعليق على هذه الإهانات للنبي صلى الله عليه وسلم من خلال منصة هذا المؤتمر السنوي الذي يعد أكبر المؤتمرات الدينية الأمريكية.

ما هي علاقتهم بالإدارة الأمريكية - والرئيس جورج بوش؟
تمثل الشخصيات السابقة المرجعية الدينية الحالية للتيار الأصولي اليميني، والحزب الجمهوري الذي يمثل الرئيس الأمريكي الحالي جورج بوش (الإن). وللدلالة على ذلك نذكر التالي:

- فرانكلين جراهام - كان هو الذي أدلى الادعية الافتتاحية لمباركة الفترة الرئاسية في حفل تنصيب الرئيس الأمريكي الحالي جورج بوش
- قام الرئيس الأمريكي الحالي جورج بوش بمخاطبة الحاضرين بالمؤتمر السنوي للكنائس المعمدانية الجنوبية من خلال الأعمار الصناعية، وهو المؤتمر الديني الوحيد الذي تحدث فيه الرئيس الأمريكي، وهو نفس المؤتمر الذي افتتح أعماله بإهانة النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم واتهامه بالذبح وأشنع التهم الأخلاقية.
- سبق للحزب الجمهوري في مطلع الأسبوع القادم (16 أكتوبر 2002) بتكريم كل من بات روبرتسون وجيري فالويل لمساهماتهم في دعم التيار اليميني المحافظ، والحزب الجمهوري وسيشارك في الاجتماع عدد كبير من قيادات الحزب الجمهوري وأعضاء الكونجرس الأمريكي.
- قام البيت الأبيض في يوم الجمعة 4 أكتوبر 2002 بالإعلان عن منحة دينية قدرها 500,000 دولار أمريكي (نصف مليون دولار) إلى بات روبرتسون، وهي المنحة الأولى التي يمنحها البيت الأبيض الأمريكي لأي مؤسسة أو شخصية دينية.
- إن العلاقة بين كل من بات روبرتسون وجيري فالويل وبيلي جراهام من طرف وبين الرؤساء الأمريكيين الجمهوريين من ناحية أخرى علاقة قوية ومعروفة لكل الأوساط السياسية والدينية والإعلامية الأمريكية.
- لا تتوانى هذه الرموز الدينية الأمريكية عن التأكيد على ضرورة تأييد إسرائيل مهما بلغ حجم اعتداءاتها على الشعب المسلم في فلسطين، وحث الإدارة الأمريكية على الدعم اللامشروط لإسرائيل تحت دعاوى تحقيق التنبؤات الدينية للتيارات اليمينية المرتبطة بالحزب الجمهوري.

ما هو دور المسلمين (علماء وأفراد) في مواجهة الهجمة (داخل أمريكا - وفي العالم الإسلامي)؟
نأمل أن يقوم العلماء والدعاة والأفراد بدورهم في الذب عن عرض النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم من خلال العديد من الخطوات الهامة:

- تعريف العالم بمدى محبة الأمة للنبي صلى الله عليه وسلم وخطورة العبث بهذه المسألة.
- بيان الموقف الشرعي ممن يسبون ويؤذون النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم.
- التكاتف للدفاع عن النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم من خلال الوسائل الإعلامية المتاحة لنا.
- بيان خطورة التهاون بين المسلمين أفراداً وجماعات وخاصة في الولايات المتحدة في الدفاع عن عرض النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم.
- ربط هذه الهجمة على النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم بالواقع السياسي الحالي، وأن هناك نية لدى التيار اليميني المتطرف وأنصاره داخل الإدارة الأمريكية والحزب الجمهوري إلى تحويل المواجهة إلى حرب مع الإسلام وعلى الرموز الدينية التي يحترمها ويحبها كل مسلم على وجه الأرض.

- أن تخصص البرامج الدينية في العالم العربي والإسلامي لهذا الموضوع والدفاع عن النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم وحث المسلمين على القيام بدورهم في ذلك.
- حث المسلمين على الاتصال بكافة البرامج الدينية وتعريفهم بأبعاد هذه الحملة ومشاركتهم بالمعلومات المتاحة في هذه الرسالة.
- نشر هذه الرسالة على الشبكات الإلكترونية للوصول إلى أكبر عدد ممكن من المسلمين في كافة بقاع الأرض.
- إيصال هذه الرسالة إلى علماء الأمة وقادتها السياسيين والشعبيين، وإلى كافة المؤسسات الإسلامية والدعوية في أمريكا والعالم الإسلامي أجمع.

شهدت الأونة الأخيرة في الولايات المتحدة الأمريكية حملة منظمة من قبل القنصليات الإنجليزية الأمريكية للهجوم على النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم من خلال وسائل الإعلام الأمريكية الكبرى وكذلك عن طريق المواقع الإلكترونية الخاصة بهم. وتدور هذه الحملة حول اتهام النبي صلى الله عليه وسلم بأشنع وأقذع الاتهامات والشتم في محاولة واضحة للطمع في الإسلام والمسلمين والاستهانة برموز الإسلام الدينية والأخلاقية.

وحرصاً على الدفاع عن نبينا صلوات الله وسلامه عليه وعن عرضه وشرفه في مواجهة هذه الحملة الماكرة، رأينا أن نضع بين أيديكم مجموعة من الحقائق عن هؤلاء القساوسة، وشتمهم واتهاماتهم للنبي، وعلاقتهم بالإدارة الأمريكية الحالية. ونسأل الله تعالى أن يعيننا على بيان الحق، وعدم كتمانهم.

هذا وصلى الله على نبينا محمد وعلى آله وصحبه وسلم

Re: Submission of Certified Security Concern to remain part of BARR program

To Whom it May Concern;

This letter is to inform the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) that United States Steel Corporation (USS) and its Corporate Air Fleet have security concerns that warrant United States Steel remaining an active member of the Block Aircraft Registration Request (BARR) Program. This letter will outline the security concerns to our aircraft and passengers that will significantly increase if we as a corporation are no longer an active member of the BARR program.

As a Fortune 200, critical manufacturing sector Corporation, United States Steel is continually and constantly targeted for exploitation by a variety of organizations and persons for a variety of reasons. United States Steel Corporation's Corporate Security Division has a continual working relationship with local, state and federal authorities in order to combat these threats and provide a secure and safe working and living environment for our employees and partners.

Over the past 36 months, United States Steel Corporation has had ten serious threats communicated to its organization and its personnel. Over this time, United States Steel has also had numerous minor security incidents. These threats have come from, but are not limited to, these specific areas;

- Transnational Eco-Terrorist Groups
- Deranged Individuals/Stalkers
- Anarchist/Anti-Corporation Organizations
- Disgruntled Employees
- Foreign Paramilitary Groups
- Kidnappers
- Transnational Criminal Organizations

The WALT DISNEY Company

Certified Security Concern

In accordance with 76 FR 32258, which was published in the Federal Register on June 3, 2011 (the "Notice"), The Walt Disney Company submits that a Certified Security Concern exists under the Valid Security Concern requirements defined in the Notice regarding the security of The Walt Disney Company, its subsidiaries, as well as its aircraft, aircraft passengers, and employees. We understand that a Valid Security Concern is a verifiable threat to person, property or company, including a threat of death, kidnapping or serious bodily harm against an individual, a recent history of violent terrorist activity in the geographic area in which the transportation is provided, or a threat against a company.

The Walt Disney Company is an iconic international corporation associated with the US and American society. Assets of The Walt Disney Company have previously been the subject of both transnational and domestic threats. Aircraft of The Walt Disney Company service numerous domestic and international destinations. Some of these destinations such as New York City, Washington DC, London, and Paris have been the subject of recent terrorist attacks or threats. Exposure of aircraft data related to current or impending flight plans of Company aircraft would put Company personnel and assets at increased risk.

The Walt Disney Company aircraft subject to this Certified Security Concern are as follows:

N200ES—Global 5000

N300ES—Gulfstream 450

N400ES—Challenger 605

N900ES—Gulfstream 550 (pending registration on 22 July)

N100ES-- (pending reassignment to Gulfstream 650 with a 2012 delivery date)

Therefore, The Walt Disney Company respectfully requests the FAA to continue the uninterrupted services of blocking the aircraft identification numbers by the industry subscribers to the FAA's data feed.

On 11 July 2001, I do certify and affirm that the above statements are true and correct.
